

Aliara 2013 one of the "Best 100 Wines of the Andes"

In his report "Top 100 Wines of the Andes", James Suckling, one of the most recognized journalists and wine critics worldwide, chose our 2013 Aliara as one of the best 100 wines among the more than 2,500 he tasted from Chile, Argentina and Uruguay.

JAMESSUCKLING.COM

In Suckling's words:

"A stunning wine that shows what's possible in Chile if a winemaker strives for clarity and vitality. Extremely fresh for a wine that's already five years old. The blackcurrant and blackberry notes leap out at you. On the palate it's just as exciting with a racy energy and a very long finish that keeps pumping out the fruit. Drink or hold."

"We are very proud that our beloved Aliara has been recognized as one of the 100 best wines of the Andes. This wine is our finest blend of Carignan, Syrah and Malbec crafted with selected fruit from our vineyards managed under organic and biodynamic agriculture principles faithful to our philosophy of respect for the eco-system. This recognition encourages all of us at Odfjell to continue our pursue of excellence."

Arnaud Hereu
Winemaker

